

DIAB STABBED BY MEXICAN.

Wounds Probably Not Fatal—Assailant Arrested—Attack Occurred at Havana.

Havana, Nov. 6.—Gen. Felix Diaz was stabbed by a Mexican at 10:30 o'clock tonight. He was wounded twice, probably not fatally.

The attack on Diaz occurred while he was walking on the Malecon, a fashionable promenade. He was wounded behind the ear and in the neck, besides receiving several blows on the head from a cane.

Diaz was removed to a hospital. His assailant was arrested.

Gen. Felix Diaz escaped from Mexico October 27, taking refuge on board the United States gunboat. Wheeling at Vera Cruz. He was transferred to the Louisiana, then to the battleship Michigan, later being put aboard the steamer Esperanza, which reached Havana last Monday.

Tracked by Conspirators.

As long ago as October 15 the Cuban government was warned that a band of Mexican conspirators was planning to kill Diaz, who they were on his way from Europe to Mexico, and Diaz was closely guarded when he landed at Havana on his homeward voyage.

There were rumors or other plots against his life, when it was learned that he was to return to Havana. A late Vera Cruz dispatch reported that Diaz had left behind him there alleged proof that an agent of the government was on his way to Vera Cruz with orders to take Diaz to Mexico city, dead or alive.

Gen. Diaz was the candidate of the National democratic party for the presidency. He had been sent by Gen. Huerta as head of a special Mexican mission to Japan, but returned to Mexico to carry on his campaign.

Refused Huerta's Invitation.

When he arrived at Vera Cruz October 22, he found the situation so threatening that he did not dare continue on to the capital. Gen. Huerta sent him an invitation to come to Mexico City, and even dispatched an envoy to endeavor to induce Diaz to accept the invitation. He declined and finally went to a hotel, from which he escaped to the Wheeling.

Gen. Felix Diaz is a nephew of Gen. Porfirio Diaz, former president of the republic. A year ago he headed a revolutionary movement at Vera Cruz, which was promptly suppressed. He headed the revolt against President Madero in Mexico City last February, which ended in the overthrow and death of Madero and the assumption of the presidency by Gen. Huerta.

TOO MANY MIGRATORY TEACHERS

Teachers Should Stick, Says Inspector W. H. Hand.

Columbia, Nov. 6.—"The frequency and regularity, with which some school change teachers almost makes one dizzy. There are two principal reasons for these changes. In the first place, many teachers themselves have a restless and migratory disposition. They seem to be on the constant lookout for advancement or promotion before they have given any marked evidence of capacity or have achieved any marked success; or, they soon tire of their present job and think they could do better in some other field. Such teachers seem to forget that promotion naturally follows achieved success instead of preceding it. They overlook the fact that it takes time to establish a reputation, and that every time a teacher changes his field he has to begin anew," says State High School Inspector W. H. Hand in his annual report.

School Boards to Blame.

"In the second place school boards are largely to blame for this constant migration of teachers. Naturally any board wishes to see its school a success, but unfortunately the board does not always know just how to make it a success. Many boards, in the smaller towns especially, seem to think that when they offer $900 a year for a man principal and $400 for women assistants they ought to command the pick of the teachers of the State. Instead they usually get a young man just out of college, absolutely innocent of any knowledge of how to run a school. Sometimes they get an older man who has been drifting from school to school for several years without any suspicion of success. Of course, by the end of the year the board finds itself and the community disappointed. Then, instead of holding the young man and giving him time to grow, or of supporting and encouraging the older one, the board dismisses him to go in quest of another new recruit.

"How can a school board expect or hope that a beardless youth with a last June's diploma in his trunk shall be able to organize a school, build a course of study and direct a body of teachers, many or few—all in one or two years? A banker would not expect such a person to run a bank. A manufacturer would not intrust to him a manufacturing plant. A farmer would not think of employing him to manage a farm. But—to run a school is a different thing; anybody can do that. Besides, it is hard to see the common sense in giving this inexperienced young man a hundred dollars a month and calling him principal, or even superintendent, to supervise from two to four women teachers at $40 or $45 a month. The situation is all the more absurd when half these women know more about teaching than this young man will know when he leaves the school room to study law or medicine, or to go into business. Mark Twain once said, 'The Lord made lunatics. That was for practice; then He made school boards.'

"The Leopard's Spots."

When it was first announced in the dramatic papers that "The Leopard's Spots" in dramatic form was soon to become an actual fact Mr. Dixon, the author of the book who is also responsible for the dramatization was besieged by New York theatrical managers who were very anxious to invest their capital in so profitable an enterprise. Mr. Dixon, who knew from past experience that to have absolute control of the play was essential to its artistic success turned down all offers and became a producing manager. Judging from the success of the play the leading theatrical managers will have to look to their laurels in the future as Mr. Dixon has spared no expense to make "The Leopard's Spots" the greatest success of the present season.

"The Leopard's Spots will be at the opera house Wednesday, November 12.

FELKER TURNS THAW OVER TO NEW YORK

Governor's Decision Automatically Throws it Into United States Tribunal.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—Gov. Felker today honored the requisition of the State of New York for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw, the fugitive from the New York State hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan. The case is now transferred automatically to the federal courts, where a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Thaw is pending.

The governor based his decision on the indictment returned against Thaw in New York county, which charged him with conspiracy to escape from the asylum, to which he was committed after his second trial for the killing of Stanford White. Thaw made his sensational flight on August 17, and a few days later was arrested near Coaticook, Canada.

To Amend Petition.

Thaw's attorneys announced that they would immediately file an amendment to their petition for a writ of habeas corpus, application for which was made soon after Thaw was arrested in this State following his deportation from Canada.

The original petition was based on the allegation that Thaw was indicted for conspiracy by the Dutchess county grand jury and it was suspended pending the governor's decision upon the matter of extradition.

Because the extradition has now been granted on the strength of the New York county indictment it will be necessary to amend the petition accordingly.

Thaw was not present when Gov. Felker announced his decision to the attorneys representing the fugitive and the State of New York at the capitol. He will remain here in the custody of United States Marshal Nute and Sheriff Drew pending the federal proceedings.

Under Indictment.

In granting the extradition Gov. Felker said in part: "By the petition of Gov. Glynn and the accompanying papers it appears that the grand jury of the county of New York has duly returned into open court an indictment against Mr. Thaw. That is sufficient to warrant the arrest, arraignment and trial of the respondent, if he may be found within the State where in the indictment is pending. It is furthermore sufficient to establish that Mr. Thaw is—if found in any State or country which such indictment is pending—a fugitive from justice.

"The provisions of the federal constitution and the acts of congress enacted to give force and effect thereto as construed by the court of last resort upon such matters, limit me to (1) Whether the person demanded the consideration of the question has been substantially charged with a crime and (2) whether he is a fugitive from justice.

In Another Case.

"Such was the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the most recent case where in a sister State demanded of New Hampshire the interstate rendition of a person within her border (Muncy vs. Clough, 196 U. S., 372, decided in 1903). In that case it was decided by a unanimous court that the proceedings in matters of this kind before the governor are summary in their nature.

"The person demanded has no constitutional right to be heard before the governor on either question and the statute provides for none. To hold otherwise would in many cases render the constitutional provision as well as the State passed to carry it out, wholly useless.

"I have nevertheless, owing to the urgency of the demands of his counsel—men in whose integrity I have confidence deep respect—given Mr. Thaw the fullest possible opportunity for the expression of their views. With profound respect, therefore, I am unable to view my duty in the premises as including an investigation of Mr. Thaw's mental condition or of the counsel for the State of New York or of the probable guilt or innocence of the accused."

The Rev. Geo. A. Wright.

Rev. C. C. Brown in Baptist Courier.

Then, too, there's Geo. A. Wright over at Johnston. A better fellow never walked among men. For many years, he stood at the helm in Newberry, and wrought a great and lasting work. Suddenly the stroke came, and George was laid aside. To many of us who once knew him he is almost like the dead. He has his good days and his bad days, and he is hobbling along through the world, trying to be as little trouble as possible to any one. He makes no complaints in the papers, and I venture would utter no protest even if he knew his old comrades had forgotten him. But it shall not be. I myself will drag his crippled body through these columns, to remind his old comrades that George is still living, and sorely needs their sympathy, their help and their brotherly remembrance. May God abide with you, friend of days long ago! You are in the heart and memory of more than you think for, and we are going to stand by you until you no longer need our help.

Mollycoddle Laxatives

Can't and Don't Touch the Vital Spot — the LIVER

Of the many laxatives on the market, many are useless. True, they may clear the intestinal tract, but they don't stimulate the Liver and release the dammed-up Bile, which is the great poison-destroyer of the body.

You take nasty salts, disagreeable oils or mineral waters, or any of a hundred other laxatives and laxative preparations, and with all your trouble, you get imperfect results.

These are simply mollycoddle laxatives, making a lot of bluff and bluster without accomplishing the desired purpose. No wonder you dislike taking a laxative. No wonder you put it off as long as possible.

The secret of prompt recovery from such troubles as bad breath, headache, dizziness, loss of appetite, constipation, biliousness, etc., is to release the dammed-up Bile. Merely washing out the intestines with salts, etc., will not release Bile.

Any physician or druggist will tell you that Calomel (Mercury) or Podophyllin (May Apple Root) are the two great recognized Liver regulators and Bowel Cleansers. Calomel so generally used, is a poisonous mineral, exhausting and dangerous to the system. Another laxative must be given to wash it out.

Podophyllin is the one perfect and harmless substitute for Calomel, and will be remembered by older people as the favorite remedy prescribed 20 or 30 years ago. It is harmless and very efficacious, but its bitter taste and griping, nauseating effects made it unpopular.

For years chemists have experimented in an endeavor to take the bitterness, gripe and nausea out of Podophyllin, recognizing that it would then be the ideal Liver regulator. At last this has been done and given the world under the name PoDoLax.

PoDoLax is a Podophyllin formula with all undesirable features taken out.

PoDoLax is the perfect laxative for every member of the family—young or old. It should be in every medicine cabinet. You will thank us for explaining it after you have tried it. Get a bottle today and use it whenever the first symptoms of clogged Liver or Bowels appear. You take no risk. If not satisfied, you can have your money back. Suppose you ask your druggist about our statements.
